Our Supervision Services

CatholicCare provides professional supervision services for students, employees and managers.

We can assist with professional clinical supervision for counsellors, family support workers, human services personal, allied health professionals and those in management positions in a wide range of work settings.

All our professional supervisors have relevant qualifications for their industry and have undertaken further training in providing professional supervision services.

Why Supervise?

Professional supervision is distinct from the line management process.

It provides the opportunity to review:

- Professional practice
- Ethical professional development
- Personal development
- Awareness to facilitate self learning
- the space to debrief and receive mentoring

The supervisee's needs are integral to the process and all professional supervision services are client-focused.

Professional supervision is important for all practitioners to protect clients, improve the ability of practitioners to provide value to their clients, and to monitor the self-care of practitioners.

Confidential & Creative

Supervision services are provided in a supportive and strengths-focused environment, ensuring the supervisee remains at the centre of the process.

All professional supervision sessions are confidential. The only time confidentiality is breached, is when there are serious concerns of harm to self or others.

Supervision can be facilitated one-on-one or as a group peer supervision.

If travel or distance is a problem for you, our services can be facilitated via telephone or web-based services.
